DIPLOMA IN TELECOM MARKETING AND MANAGEMENT

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The business landscape in telecoms is rapidly evolving. Recognizing and capitalising on opportunities is getting increasingly difficult and complex. This programme teaches learners the core skills required to flourish in today's telecommunications business climate. This one-year credential is intended to provide learners with important business abilities in the telecommunications industry. Participants can tailor their learning to their unique requirements through one core and one optional module. Finance, marketing, leadership, technology, and industry insights are among the optional modules. The DTMM was revitalising and energising, and it presented with several possibilities for discussions and arguments throughout the course. The framework of the course is ideal for a group of telecom operators and regulators. It has provided a solid foundation for constantly improving current managerial and technical competence. DTMM is the course for you if you are in middle or upper management.
